Showdown Vote Due Saturday For Four County, State Offices

232 Absentee Ballots Are Cast

The second primary election—the do or die election for Democratic candidates—will be reeled off Saturday in Randall County and across the state.

One county office, one precinct office, one district office, and one state office are up for grabs in the showdown vote.

Some 232 absentee votes were cast in Randall County for the election, indicating that the total vote Saturday may be about the same as it was for the first primary on May 7.

For the first primary, about 240 absentee votes were cast.

24 Votes Cast Here

Officials reported that 208 of the absentee votes were cast at the South Amarillo annex to the courthouse, while 24 ballots were cast at the courthouse in Canyon.

In the runoff election are Wayland Angel and Carroll Brown, candidates for county judge; B. E. "Baile" McCormick and B. R. Jones, candidates for county commissioner of precinct 1; William L. "Jerry" Lee and Ted Springer, candidates for state representative of the 94th Floterial District, and W. T. McDonald and Lloyd W. Davidson, candidates for judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Angel and Brown defeated a host of would-be office holders to get to the second primary election.

Brown Beat Angel

Brown had more than 1,000-vote lead over Angel in the first vote, but could not muster a majority of the ballots. In that May election, Brown polled 3,141 votes, Angel got 2,016 votes, Elmer Burnett collected 1,392 votes, and Jack J. Haines garnered 783 votes.

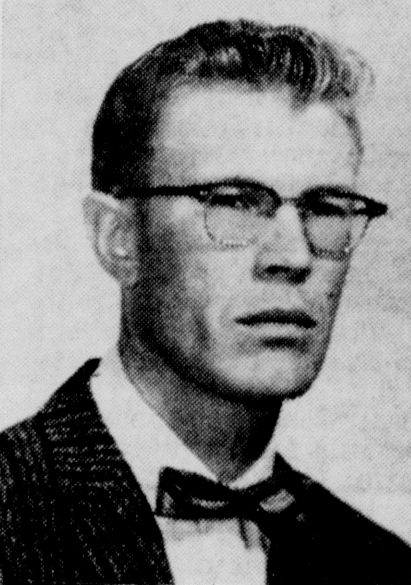

McCormick and Jones went to the wire in a squeaker in the May voting, with Jones getting 864 votes to 837 votes for McCormick. Others in the race for precinct commissioner were B. W. Flippin, who got 708 votes, Don McGregor, who managed 116 votes, Raymond Wineinger, who polled 788 votes, and J. E. McAvoy, Jr., who collected 99 votes.

In the race for state representative, Springer got 3,075 votes in the county, while Lee polled 2,145. Evetts Haley, Jr., had 2,218 ballots marked in his favor for the office.

Davidson beat McDonald by a scant 200 votes in the county for the post of judge of the criminal appeals court. Davidson garnered 2,562 votes to McDonald's 2,370. Jim D. Bownser got 1,769 votes for the office.

Winners of the election Saturday, as well as last month's winners, must face the Republican candidates for office—if any—in the general election in November.

Canyon Singer Has Record That Could 'Hit the Charts'

The nation's newest singing sensation may live in Canyon. It all depends on how well a just-released record sells.

Keeping his fingers crossed is Jimmy Craig, 21-year-old singer from Canyon.

Craig now has a record in the hands of disc jockeys throughout the nation, and with any luck at all it has a chance of "hitting the charts." Hitting the charts means that the record is among the top 40 or 50 records in the country.

On Warwick Label

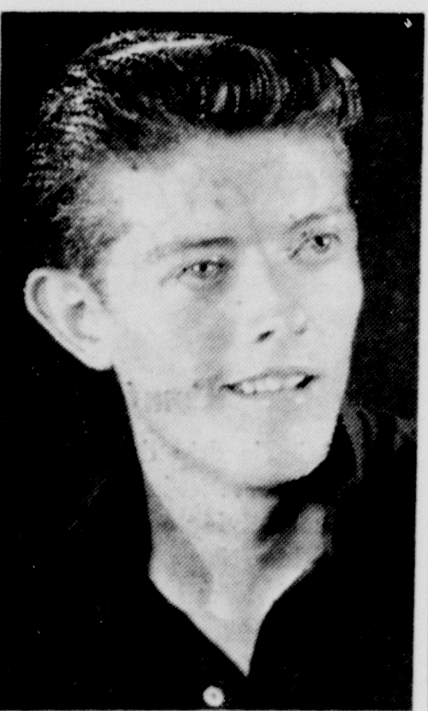

The song which Craig thinks might turn the trick for him is "The Drifter," a gimmick song with an unusual vocal arrangement.

On the flip side of the disc is "Let Me Stay," a slow ballad, which the "older-than-teens" set should prefer.

Released on the Warwick label, the record is enhanced by backing for Craig by The Fireballs, who have accompanied some of the top recorders in the nation and have had a couple of their own records in the top 20. They also have made several television appearances.

First Was 'Bomb'

The slender singer had his first record released last April, but "it was a bomb," he said—meaning that it didn't sell. Released on the Imperial label were "Walking in Darkness" and "Oh Little Girl." Neither caught on with the record-buying public, however.

Craig says it will be about a month before he and his manager, Norman Petty of Clovis, N. M., know how the record will do.

Both are hoping that it will hit the charts because Manly Craft, head of Warwick, says he will spend $25,000 on publicity for the next promising singer in his organization.

Craig and his manager think "The Drifter" has the best chance of making their dreams come true by letting them cash in on the $25,000 publicity. They're not betting on it though.

Canyon High Graduate

Bob Montgomery wrote "The Drifter," while Johnny Duncan penned "Let Me Stay." Both are well-known song writers.

Craig, who graduated from Canyon High School in 1957, began his singing career while in high school. He sang with a trio composed of Buzzy Barnhill, Bob Fielding, and himself at banquets, school parties, and other school functions. The trio also made several appearances on local television.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Craig of 1110 Fourth Avenue, he is married to the former Janet Wheeler of Canyon.

Craig hasn't made any television appearances since he began singing professionally, but realizes this will come if his new record starts selling. And that is left to the nation's disc jockeys.

Care for the Aged

Everyone is interested in the health and medical care problems of elderly people, and the matter has become a political issue of high importance.

The rub comes in two ways: First, there is a lack of any general agreement or understandings as to just what the problems consist of, specifically speaking. Second, as a consequence of that, there is a lack of any general agreement as to what the proper solutions are.

One approach is found in the extremely controversial Forand Bill, which would give government-paid medical, hospital, and nursing home benefits to all beneficiaries of the Social Security system.

This bill has had and still has many adherents. But it also has aroused strong opposition, primarily on two grounds—that it would be enormously costly (about $2 billion a year to begin with and much more later) and that it would amount to an entering wedge into socialized medicine.

Very recently, the administration offered a counter-measure. This, many believe, is a great improvement over Forand-type legislation, in that it is based on voluntary action by the elderly, with limited federal financial aid; would tie in with the private health insurance coverage, and would be less costly.

However, the American Medical Association, which has been making thorough studies of the medical care problems of the aged, finds that this program "is based on the false premise that almost all persons over 65 need health care and cannot afford it."

That premise, Dr. Louis M. Orr, AMA president, states, "is not a fact."

Moreover, only 15 percent of the more than 15 million people in this nation over 65 years of age are on old-age assistance. Of the remainder, an undetermined number need help in handling the financial burdens of illness.

Neither the Forand bill nor the administration bill, keyed as they are to the assistance rolls, would adequately meet the need.

The AMA, therefore, has proposed a positive program of its own. Here, in summary form, is what it says:

1. Medical care programs, including preventive medical care, for people now under old age assistance programs should be improved.

2. The near-needy—that group of indeterminate size which can meet ordinary living costs but not health care costs—should be helped with a state-administered program of federal grants-in-aid to the states for the liberalization of existing old age assistance programs so that they can be given health care without having to meet the present rigid requirements for indigency.

3. Better nursing home facilities for the long-term care of the aged is the most urgent health care need of the time. The AMA supports federal programs for the provision of grants to help provide the facilities.

4. Voluntary health insurance and prepayment policies tailored to meet the needs of the aged for long term nursing care must be developed as rapidly as possible. The insurers are now experimenting in this new area of coverage.

5. Home care—which the AMA describes as "psychologically, medically, and financially desirable"—should be expanded.

6. A basic change in attitude toward the aged persons is an urgent need. Most people over 65 are reasonably well and able to work. Compulsory retirement should be eliminated.

7. Many older persons are unaware of the need for continuing healthful nutrition and other practices that contribute to good health. Health education is needed, along with preventive medical measures instituted long before the age of 65.

8. One of the principal economic problems of the aged has been the constant erosion of the purchasing power of his pension dollar. Thus, any government program to help the aged must be anti-inflationary.

Dr. Orr sums up: "Sensible, economical health care programs for the aged that preserve freedom at the same time that they promote security must necessarily be limited to support for the needy aged and leave to voluntary, competitive, private enterprise, those activities needed to improve the health care of the rest."

No Says the Man

In Washington sits a federal official who rewrites laws duly enacted by Congress with all the ease and grace demonstrated by the New Deal Supreme Court. Where the court, however, occasionally says "Thou shalt," the Comptroller General always says "Thou shalt not."

Navy Lt. Don Walsh is not the first citizen to run afoul of the Comptroller General's strict interpretation of laws in the interest of saving the nation money. Doubtless in the end, he will be paid extra compensation for that hazardous dive in the bathysphere. But it will take a new act of Congress to get it for him. And his case is illustrative of how the Comptroller General thinks and acts.

Unlike the court, the Comptroller General is moved by neither politics nor sociological thinking. His one aim in life is to see that no dollar of the nation's money is expended in a manner unauthorized by law. But it is fair to assume that he reasons on occasion that Congress has been too free with the authorization and that delaying tactics furnished by his interpretation may get a subsequent Congress to correct the situation. There is no question of the integrity of motive. The Comptroller General is just working for the taxpayer.

When the Nation went to war in 1941, Congressman Paul Kilday fathered a law equalizing the longevity pay of reserve officers with the Regular Army. Congress, said the Comptroller General, did not really mean that. And Rep. Kilday had to get his bill passed again to make it work. A bit later, Sen. Sparkman sponsored a bill providing that all officers serving honorably in both World Wars I and II would receive retirement pay on the same basis as the Regular Army. The Comptroller General has held consistently that the law meant only the Regular Army, and though the issue is still in the courts, he has not been overruled yet. The saving so far is a tidy sum.

The Comptroller General has a long-term office and can not succeed himself. No federal position is more free from political pressure, cajolery, persuasion. Maybe he is wrong occasionally, as the Navy thinks he is on Lt. Walsh now. But he saves the country money where and when he can. Come to think of it, how many others can you name in Washington that even try to do that?

What Our Neighbors Say . . .

Scissor Snippings

Cecil O. Waggoner in the Claude News: I seriously doubt the American people are as worried about the international situation as our daily newspapers and TV reporters would have us believe. Last Sunday I didn't see any new faces at church. I haven't heard anyone calling on the nation to repent. I don't see any fall-out shelters being built. I don't see anyone rushing around trying to wake us up to the potential dangers. In fact I have found very few interested enough to try and find out what communism is all about.

Perhaps we have watched the "make-believe" world so long we actually feel we are watching a three-ring circus and no one will really get hurt. So thought those now under domination.

Ben Ezzell in The Canadian Record: This we'll nominate for one of the worst puns we've ever come across . . . and don't say you weren't warned if you insist on reading on!

It concerns the head of a city water works filtering plant who willed his brain, after death, to a scientific laboratory. When he died, his friends at the laboratory were sorry to hear of his death, but they were delighted to receive his brain.

It was their first opportunity to examine a filtering man's thinker!

Hop Graham, Jr., in the State Line Tribune: The bowling fever has swept this little community like the three-day measles, and I must confess that in spite of the resistance I claim against minor vices, the bug put the bite on me a little bit.

If you have had a bad case of bowling fever and haven't been able to shake it, it's only because you haven't hit your first slump. So long as I knocked over more and more pins each time I tried the game, I thought it was fine.

But last Thursday night, with me "leading" the team, The Tribune got pasted three out of four games by that nasty Shirley outfit, and there went our league lead.

It was downright discouraging. No matter how hard I tried, the ball scooted away from my aim. By the time the match was over, I was ready to run down the alley and kick the pins over, but I didn't. I just went home "cured" (for a few days, anyway), of the bowling bug bite.

No doubt I will be out of my slump in a few days and the fever will begin to rise once more. However, it is comforting to know that there IS a cure for the disease, and we really don't have to sign our souls over to Partin and Guy Austin.

Part of our population complains that they have no work, and all the rest say they have too much.

Dairy Foods Top Abundance List

COLLEGE STATION—There will be an abundance of milk and dairy products this June, the Dairy Month.

In fact, dairy food supplies are so large they are featured on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's June list of plentiful foods, reports the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The good-supply story covers the dairy field—whole milk, butter, milk, skim milk, flavored milks, butter, yogurt, cheese of all kinds, dry milk, evaporated milk, cottage cheese, cream, half-and-half, and ever-popular ice cream.

Fresh spring vegetables also will be plentiful in Texas this month. Watch local markets and advertisements for specials. Look for especially good buys on celery, asparagus, onions, radishes, salad greens, green peppers, cucumbers, sweet corn, snap beans, and potatoes. USDA's list emphasizes the abundance of Texas onions.

The supply of broilers and fryers continues large and current prices encourage frequent use of chicken for picnics and patio cooking.

Peanut butter is on the list. This protein-rich food is ideal for sandwiches, with milk, and a host of cooking and baking recipes. Vegetable fats and oils are plentiful. Prices are running lower than a year ago. And they're just the thing for spring salad time.

These items are listed as plentiful because supplies exceed normal needs, as determined by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service in cooperation with growers and the food trade.

Youngsters Tell of Goats' Visit To Canyon Grade School Classes

(Editor's note: The third grade class of Miss Sarah Thompson has been studying "Animals Round the Year" and, as a special surprise to end the science study, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shartle, who live south of the new Canyon High School, brought three "kids"—goat style—to school. These are some of the stories the youngsters wrote about the goats.)

Some kids came to visit us at school. We shared them with the first, second, and third grades. Some children fed them dinner in a bottle. The little goats are two weeks old. They are Nanny goats. They looked like they were going to eat our sweaters and they nibbled weeds and tumbleweeds. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shartle brought them. One of them kept jumping. Their names are Betsy, Beth, and Baby. —Billie Helene Hill

Friday, May 20, 1960, just before lunch at Canyon Elem. School. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shartle visited school and their three little kids came with them. The kids were triplets. The tallest one had my name, "Susie." —Susan Gaile Read

Today, May 20, 1960. Three kid goats came to school. They were black and white. They were two weeks old. We fed the kid goats with baby bottles. They belonged to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shartle. We watched them play together. One nibbled on a weed I gave her. —Nancy Reese.

Art Teacher for 30 Years Retires From WT Faculty

Closing a college teaching career of more than 30 years, Miss Isabel Robinson, associate professor of art since 1925, retired from the faculty of West Texas State College May 31.

WT President James P. Cornette announced Miss Robinson's decision to retire and recognized her long service to the college at spring convocation.

She also was honored at the annual reception given by Dr. and Mrs. Cornette for graduating students.

Came in 1925

Miss Robinson came to West Texas State in the fall of 1925 and was acting head of the art department while the head of the department was on leave. She taught art during 1925-27 at Bloomsburg (Pa.) State Teachers College, and then returned to WT to stay as head of the art department in 1927.

Until 1955 Miss Robinson was head of the department at WT, when she requested relief from administrative duties, and Dr. Emilio Caballero succeeded her.

"I am planning to remain in Canyon, where my home has been for so many years," Miss Robinson said. "I am planning to spend my time painting, weaving, and gardening, and now I hope to have more time for my friends. Of course, I will travel this summer, but I have always traveled in the summer."

Miss Robinson has spent most

of her summer time traveling and studying throughout the years, with the exception of five years in the late 1930's and early '40's, when she conducted an art school in the summer in Palo Duro State Park.

Various summers have been spent by Miss Robinson traveling in Europe, Alaska, Canada, and Mexico, as well as the United States, and on most occasions, she attended schools of art, studying nearly all the media, and painting. She attended the Kirksville State Teachers College in Missouri, her home, before earning her B.A. degree at the University of Missouri. She holds the M.A. from Columbia University, and has studied at such schools as Snow-Froelich School of Art in Chicago, a branch of the Pratt Institute in Booth Bay, Me., the Otis Art Institute in Los Angeles, Claremont College, the Art Center at Colorado Springs, Colorado State University, Denver University, and the Cranbrook Art Institute near Detroit.

Illustrator of Books

Miss Robinson has exhibited her works throughout the nation, from New York City to several cities on the West Coast. Her one-man shows have been displayed at the University of Alabama, Northeastern Michigan State College, Kirksville, and in Texas cities, including Dallas, San Antonio, Austin, Fort Worth, and Amarillo.

Author of several articles in professional art journals, Miss Robinson has also been illustrator for a number of books.

A map of the Panhandle, showing points of historical interest, which she designed in the late 1920's, is still in print and is on sale at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum and several business houses in Amarillo.

Rationing Stopped School

"That map is apparently on display as far away as New York," Miss Robinson said. "An acquaintance of mine once told me she had seen it in one of the museums or libraries in New York."

Probably the Palo Duro Art Society has fondest place in Miss Robinson's memory, for the summer colony in the canyons might yet be in operation but for gasoline rationing at the beginning of World War II.

"The school, for six weeks each summer, was going well," she said, "but we had to give it up when we didn't have transportation to the canyons. We had many requests to start the school again after the war, but the press of other affairs never left time to devote to it."

Founded Art Colony

Students attending the school lived in the park in a little village, consisting of cabins with tent tops, she said. Streets were laid out and named, and each cabin had running water.

"We usually had visiting artists to help us for about a week at a time, and some of them came from the East and Midwest. We also had Alec Mack of Canyon, Harold Bugbee of Clarendon, and Amy Jackson of Amarillo to come out for short periods to help teach the students. And we always had Floyd Studer to talk on the geology of the canyons."

Miss Robinson's favorite media is water colors, though she has also utilized oils, etchings, lithography, cerography, and printing. Her hobby is weaving, which she has taught for several years at WT.

Good Craftsmanship Prevails

"My paintings have been both realistic and abstract," she said. "I believe firmly in good drawing and that any painting has to adhere to composition and design, which are basic to both realistic and abstract work."

There is a tendency in painting, as well as in other forms of art as literature and music, she said, toward the expression of the more intangible sides of life, as feeling and emotion.

"In the late 19th century, there was a big change in art from representation, when design and composition were minimized," Miss Robinson said. "Now, in recent years, there has been a trend in all the arts to express the sordid and extreme realism of life. In all of it, however, I still have respect for good craftsmanship."

Honesty may be kept at the foot of the class for a while, but it will come to the head in its own good time.

If you're a putter-offer, just remember that it's never too late to be thoughtful. Instead of developing a guilt complex about the sick card you didn't send, the covered dish you never got around to taking, do it yet! Of it that is no longer appropriate, do something that is.

Mrs. B's youngest made the honor roll and you meant to call, but it slipped your mind. When you see her two weeks later you're ashamed to say anything. Don't be. Write her a note: "Seeing you today reminded me of Jack's nice honor at school recently. You must be proud to have a son who is a good student as well as being such a fine boy."

Do you know any mother who would resent it because you hadn't said something sooner? Not on your life! If anything, she is doubly flattered that you remembered it.

We learned this from being on the receiving end of little kindnesses. A clipping about something nice that comes our way, with a thoughtful note attached, is just as welcome three weeks later as it would have been the day it appeared, because a friend is saying, "I'm glad for you." At the time you were already happy; this makes you relive that pleasant moment.

Sometimes these tactful tardinesses are even more needed than if they had been 'on time.' A person who loses a loved one, for example, must go on living with the sorrow. A month, two months later, they are still living with that loneliness, and there are fewer drop-in visitors to help pass the hours. Your visit will be welcome.

All of us over-accident keeping a schedule in our daily living. We forget that human values aren't clock-watchers.

System Speeds Postal Delivery

Rudy Hernandez, who is in charge of the Latin American Evangelism for the Baptist General Convention of Texas, will be principal speaker Saturday at the Amarillo Baptist Association's youth rally at the Avondale Baptist Church in Amarillo. Time of the rally is 7:30 p.m.

Overnight mail delivery between Canyon and almost every city and town in the Upper and South Plains is now possible, postal officials announced this week.

Mail delivery from Canyon to any of the 124 communities within 37,000 square miles is affected by the improved delivery system, George A. Gray, regional operations director for the post office, said Tuesday.

Under the new system, first-class letters mailed at designated collection boxes or in the post office before 5 p.m. will be delivered the following morning.

Tests conducted during the past month have shown an increase of 21 percent in second-day mail service. Before the stepped-up program was started, 78 percent of the test letters were received the following day. After the system began, the percentage was up to 99.

Revisions in mail delivery are based on the establishment of sectional centers to which mail from the area is brought. Letters for that section are distributed, and others are sent to the proper centers. These sectional centers are Amarillo, Childress, Lubbock, and Plainview.

Fast non-stop service will carry mail between the centers. The plan involves an intricate pattern of interlocking schedules, with connections being made within minutes at many places.

Mail from all over the United States will also be speeded by the improvements. Next-day delivery between any two cities in the country is a long range objective of the post office department.

Gray explained that the new delivery system depends on the special attention of postal employees as well as the close timing of the transportation which links the area's postal units.

It's much better to have aimed high and missed than never to have aimed at all.

He's really a true friend if he never bores nor borrows.

Columnist Begins Strange Tale Of 'Old Rip', the Horned Toad

By BOYCE HOUSE

Many of us think of a legend as a story handed down from a long-ago past; something that our fathers heard from their fathers. But this is the story of a legend that originated in the memory-span of many who read these lines — how a legend began, told by one who can be said to know about it at first hand.

Old Rip was one of those fantastic, fearsome-looking but harmless creatures which scientists say are lizards; but any small boy in West Texas knows better than that: they are horned frogs.

They have leathery-like hides and spiked heads. They are voiceless and their drab color enables them to blend into the background. Their ability to scurry is their chief reliance in getting away from danger. When aroused, they can emit a reddish fluid from their eyes. In the winter, they find hiding places and go into a state of suspended animation.

Became Part of Texas

The hero of this tale was no different in appearance from any of the unnumbered thousands which swarm over numerous Texas counties each spring and summer. A little, bright-eyed creature that you could hold in the palm of your hand — yet he gained world-wide renown and he has become a part of the lore and legend of Texas.

In the winter of 1927-28, this chronicler was editor of Eastland's daily newspaper. A group sat in the office of the district clerk in the old brick courthouse, which had been built in 1897 and was soon to be torn down. It was almost closing time.

In the group was Ernest Wood, former county clerk and later justice of the peace. He was a plump, middle-aged man with mild blue eyes and a quiet way of speaking. The conversation had been about this and that; then Wood, addressing me, asked: "Did you ever hear the West Texas tradition that a horned frog can live a hundred years without food or water?"

Toad in Cornerstone

Newspaper instinct told me that here was a story but that instinct also told me to handle the line with care. So, in an equally casual tone, I replied, "No—but then I'm comparatively new in West Texas and don't know all the traditions. Why?" His answer was, "We'll soon know whether it's true or not."

"How is that?" "Because when the cornerstone of this courthouse was laid, a live horned frog was placed in it."

He then related the circumstances: The courthouse cornerstone was going to be laid. Being a member of the band, he would have a part in the ceremonies. As he was leaving home, Wood saw his son, Will, playing with a horned frog. The father had read, a day or so before in the Dallas News, something about the purported ability of these creatures to survive a century without food or water. Deciding to put the matter to a test, he took the frog and proceeded downtown.

AP Uses Article

Because of his duties as a musician, Wood knew he would not have the opportunity to place the frog in the cornerstone so he entrusted the animal to a friend whom he saw place the frog in the cornerstone, where also were deposited a Bible, newspapers and coins.

That night, (after our conversation) I wrote a short news article, keeping the carbon for use in the Eastland paper and sending the original to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, of which I was the local correspondent. Not only did the Star-Telegram publish the article but the Associated Press, of which that newspaper is a member, sent the dispatch to hundreds of journals.

Letters came to Eastland from many sections. Visitors asked about the matter and townspeople traveling to other areas were showered with inquiries. Was it really true that a live frog had been sealed in the cornerstone? When would the stone be opened? The seekers for information who dwelt in more distant regions wanted to know if there actually were frogs with horns. The young editor was amazed at the wide interest which had been aroused.

Demolition Begins

It was not long until destruction of the courthouse began. County Judge E. S. Pritchard promised to learn from the contractors the exact day and an estimate of the hour that the cornerstone would be reached. So on a Friday morning, the editor was informed that probably in the middle of the afternoon of the next day the cornerstone would be opened. Through the Associated Press, millions were informed of this.

On Saturday, February 18, 1928, shortly after noon, people began to gather and the crowd grew steadily larger. The frog was the only topic of conversation: Would he be found — and, if so, would he be alive?

There was one member of the crowd who was sure that nothing would be discovered, not even a shriveled mummy or a pinch of dust that could be identified. This individual was the brash young editor who had started all the speculation. (To be concluded next week.)

who has been representing the 94th
Floterial District in the Texas House of Representatives:

All the people in your district are entitled to the answers to the following questions:

WHY did YOU INTRODUCE House Bill 184 two weeks after you took office in 1957—a bill that would have set back Texas Labor-Management relations to 1899, a bill that would:

- ... let state employees strike
- ... let outsiders picket and disrupt business that had no labor trouble
- ... let union bosses operate without registering and reporting
- ... let union bosses extort political funds
- ... let Teamsters practice business-crippling "secondary boycotts"

(See House Journal—January 22, 1957)

WHY did you so vote in the 1957 session that the AFL-CIO gave you 100% on their Voting Record—putting you at the top of its list, having cast 11 favorable votes, and NOT one unfavorable vote?

WHY did you so vote that the AFL-CIO Voting Record for 1959 shows that you cast 21 out of 24 votes for this highly specialized group, dominated by Houston labor bosses?

WHY even though you had served earlier as president of the North Texas Conference of Typographical Unions and as public relations man for the Amarillo Labor Legislative Council, didn't you represent ALL of the people of your District?

IS IMPORTANT IN SATURDAY'S ELECTION

ELECT

CARROLL E. BROWN

CANDIDATE FOR

RANDALL COUNTY JUDGE

A LAWYER TO SERVE ALL THE PEOPLE

Thank you for giving me the No. 1 position in the First Primary. It was gratifying to have received over 42% of the total votes cast for all four candidates.

I again re-assure you that, if elected, I will devote whatever time is needed to fully and promptly perform all official duties of the office of Randall County Judge.

The duties of the Randall County Judge which deal with the Commissioners Court and with the County School System deserve the services of a capable business administrator who has had legal training. Those duties which deal with the Juvenile Court, Probate matters, the trial of civil and criminal cases, the condemnation of rights-of-way, and appeals from lower Courts deserve the training which only a lawyer has. The legal and administrative problems which face Randall County today have changed materially since the adoption of the Texas Constitution in 1836, but the qualifications for the County Judge have remained, "who shall be well informed in the law of the State". Potter County, among others, has provided for the changed conditions by establishing additional courts in which the Judge MUST be a lawyer.

For the past 20 years I have been engaged either in business management or in the private practice of civil law. You are invited to inquire of any member of the Amarillo Bar Association concerning my integrity or my qualifications.

Your Vote and Influence Will Be Greatly Appreciated

Washington Report More About the U-2

By Representative Walter Rogers
18th Congressional District

The story of the flight of the U-2 plane over Russia and the resulting repercussions will be told for many years to come. It brought many things into glaring focus and brought out the truth about the international picture, untarnished by diplomatic maneuverings and fence-straddling.

It is a well-known and documented fact that Russia has engaged in the most extensive espionage activities in this country for many years and that these activities have been measurably stepped up in the last several years. In fact, the Russians have been caught many times and a number of those active in this practice are now in the penitentiaries of this country.

Since May 1, 1946, the history of the United States reflects documentation of 65 Russian spy cases in this country. Among these of course are the cases involving the theft of atom bomb secrets from this country. Each and every case documented, in my opinion, involves facts and figures a great deal more serious in every respect than any information of figures that could have been gathered by a weather plane 15 miles above the earth. A number of the cases involve the use of diplomatic immunity to further espionage activities. Yet, it would seem from the cries of Mr. Khrushchev that only Russia is entitled to gather information about other countries.

Use for Propaganda

Many people have felt for some time that Khrushchev was much more interested in talking about a summit meeting than in actually engaging in one. They also felt that if the summit meeting came about, the sole purpose of Khrushchev in participating in it would be to use the meeting as a stage from which to pour forth propaganda or to embarrass the other participating countries, rather than to devote all effort toward a peaceful solution of the many trying world problems.

They also felt that when the meeting ceased to serve those purposes for Russia, it would be scuttled. These were some of the many reasons why former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had opposed meetings that could be used as outlined.

The activities of Mr. Khrushchev in recent days have confirmed the fears and feelings of those who felt as expressed in the above paragraph. He grabbed on to the U-2 incident to serve all of his purposes. He used it for propaganda as to the great ability of the Soviet Union to know what is going on in and over their own land. He used it as a means to threaten other nations. He used it as a means to try to embarrass the President of the United States. (But he quickly found that he had more than met his match). He used it to scuttle the summit meeting which he did not want to attend in the first place, and thereby avoided the necessity of immediately facing a number of issues which have proved most embarrassing to him. He thought that the U-2 incident was probably the finest thing that had ever happened in his career to bolster and support him.

Lot of Hot Air

But, he may soon find out that it will be the worst possible thing that could have happened to him. He may find it most difficult to explain to many countries, and most especial of all, to his own people, that all of his braggadocio and big talk about Russia's invincibility and invulnerability has turned out to be a lot of hot

Palo Duro-Rusk Elects Officers

Election of officers highlighted a meeting of the Palo Duro-Rusk Home Demonstration Club recently in the home of Mrs. C. F. Reynolds. Mrs. Earl Reynolds was re-elected president. Other officers are Mrs. Althea Douglas, re-elected vice president, and Mrs. Doug Marshall, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Mona K. Hildreth gave a demonstration on quick meals. She also showed a shoe in the process of being covered with cloth and announced a workshop in shoe covering, tentatively set for the third week in June.

The club will not meet again until September 22, when a Southwestern Public Service Company representative will be in charge of the program.

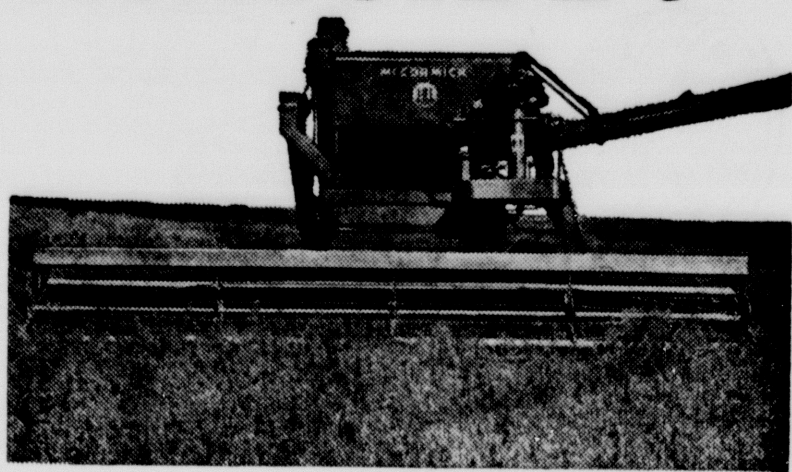

The next regular meeting will be September 27.

He may find that the Russian people will begin to wonder just how much truth there is in all of his big talk, now that they discover that these flights have been going on over Russia for some four years. Perhaps he thinks that he can keep this truth from the Russian people, but he cannot keep it from the top echelon of the party faithful in the Kremlin, a group that has the reputation of not permitting extended explanations.

History will probably record that Mr. Khrushchev, like other dictators, overplayed his hand. He has failed miserably in the greatest opportunity he will ever have to place the USSR in a favorable position insofar as the quest for peace is concerned; a failure from which he will not recover, and one which serves to confirm the suspicions of all free countries as to the lack of sincerity of the USSR concerning their talk of desires for peace.

with 46-inch cylinder, 18-foot cut

It's bigger all over—inside, outside, up front! This McCormick No. 181 cuts a full 18-foot swath. Five big rotary straw racks separate the grain inside the big 46-inch wide separator. Gives you 25% more threshing and cleaning capacity than the big McCormick No. 151.

Grain tank is bigger too—holds 65 bushels. IH 6-cylinder engine develops 80 hp. Forty-five-gallon fuel tank holds enough gas to last all day.

Yes—the No. 181 is bigger all over... yet it handles "as easily as a baby buggy." Choice of 18, 16, 14 or 12-foot platform. Come in and get the full story on this big new combine.

Instead of chopping or cultivating all season, just apply Dowpon to your fields—in the spring before planting, or in the fall, after harvest—and you'll be rid of tough problem grasses. To the Editor:

Baseball season is with us again, and a great number of people will be unselfishly giving of time and effort in this worthwhile activity for our youngsters.

Many of us mothers would like to be able to watch our children play, but it is almost impossible to do so unless we drive there early enough to park advantageously.

We have a nice set of stands to sit in, but the unrestricted follow-the-leader, running, jumping, elbowing and general nuisance behavior of unsupervised children of all ages makes their use impossible.

If you people who think your children have gone to the ball park to watch the ball games would try to watch a game from the stands, just once, you would surely see that something regulatory needs to be done. And surely you must understand that the already over-busy people who are supervising the project cannot act as disciplinarians for thoughtless children among the spectators.

Sincerely,
Mrs. C. C. Callarman

Hints Offered For Safe Mowing

COLLEGE STATION—Did you know a rotary power lawn mower blade travels at speeds up to 150 miles per hour and is capable of throwing sticks, stones, or other objects at comparable speeds? Imagine what would happen if you were hit by one of these fast-flying objects.

Power lawn mowers are now in the majority both in town and among farm people. Along with their increased use has been a closely related increase in accidents involving both operators and bystanders. Most accidents have been due to carelessness or lack of knowledge on the part of the individual.

W. L. Ulich, Texas A&M extension agricultural engineer, offers these suggestions on how to operate your rotary power lawn mower safely and efficiently:

Always disconnect spark plug wire before working on the blade; A clean sharp blade does a better cutting job and requires less power;

Never operate mower with safety shields removed;

Make sure all rocks and debris are removed from the area before close mowing;

Do not refill the gasoline tank when engine is hot or running;

Run mower as slow as possible to do good work;

Keep children and pets away from mowers;

Always be certain of sure footing when mowing on steep slopes; Never leave engine running when mower is unattended;

Make sure mower is steady and under control before starting engine;

Always be aware of the hazards involved when you are using a power mower. Don't get caught napping.

Nothing seems to work out right any more. In a town where you park as long as you wish, you don't wish to.

Why we feel that we should ELECT

Wayland C. Angel

FOR

Randall County Judge

FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW:

1. Since 1889 Randall County has had 15 Judges. Only 4 of these have been lawyers.
2. In the 8 counties bordering Randall County, only 1 judge (Briscoe County) is a lawyer. They have not had any trouble, mostly because these men are full-time judges.
3. The first accusation against our last Randall County Judge was neglect of duty of this office.

Many types of business comes to this office all hours of the day. If the judge cannot be reached, persons in custody must be held at County expense.

Others have to make many trips because the Judge is not in.

We feel that we should elect Wayland C. Angel because:

- ★ He is the only candidate who will be a full-time Judge.
- ★ He has no outside obligations that will interfere with the duties of this office.
- ★ He has no other office to maintain.
- ★ He is a proven successful business man.

The county Criminal District Attorney is required by the State to furnish legal advice for this office when and if needed.

Mosquitos and Sleeping Sickness
Go Hand in Hand During Summer

Summer and "sleeping sickness" go hand in hand.

Sleeping sickness is actually a type of encephalitis transmitted by infective mosquitoes. The popular name is derived from the stupor it sometimes causes among its victims.

Since mosquitoes abound in warm weather, summer is the danger season for mosquito-borne encephalitis. The State Department of Health last year received reports of 57 cases, all of which occurred during the months of summer and early fall.

2 Spread Disease

Altogether there are some 75 species of mosquitoes which have been identified in Texas, but encephalitis is spread principally by just two. The experts call them "culex tarsalis" and "culex quinquefasciatus." The latter is sometimes called the household mosquito because it has adapted itself to backyard environments.

The time it takes a mosquito to develop from egg to the blood-hungry adult that plaques you on a summer night depends on the species, the temperature and the food supply, say State Health Department entomologists. In Texas it can vary from four days to two weeks.

Here are some suggestions on ways to minimize mosquito populations in and around your home this summer:

Minimize Mosquitos

Eliminate all possibilities of water standing and stagnating. Clean gutters, pick up old buckets, cans, automobile tires, and other objects likely to catch and hold rain water. Make sure septic tanks or cesspools are covered with earth.

Evaporative coolers and water containers for pets and livestock should be drained and refilled weekly. Tree holes should be filled with cement or mortar.

Empty and replace the water in flower vases regularly. Make sure window and door screens are doing the job. If you have a backyard goldfish pond, put a few easily-found top-water minnows in it to control mosquito larva.

Proper spraying with a good residual spray should be used on out buildings and other likely points of mosquito landings.

Nester Reviews
Book on Barnum

Canyon Toastmasters Club enjoyed a lively session at their regular weekly meeting at the Legion Hall Monday night. Hampton Lisle acted as toastmaster of the evening with 13 members present.

Dr. C. R. Nester, who had an assigned speech, gave a review of a book about the famous showman, P. T. Barnum. R. W. McNeill's seven-minute speech was entitled "A Specific Problem in Integration."

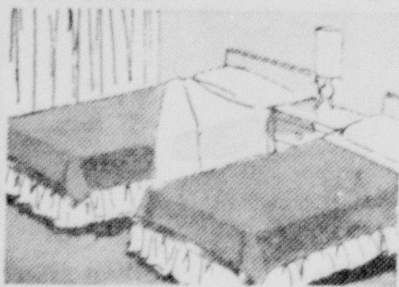

Joe Frank, R. C. McNeill, Bob Wear, Al Craig, Gerald Dietz, Clark Jarnagin, John Williams, and Don Duncan each made two-minute impromptu speeches on such subjects as "Semantics," "Socialism," "Cynicism," and "Tolerance."

The evaluation panel, made up of Toastmasters Jarnagin, Duncan and Williams, gave a critique on the speeches.

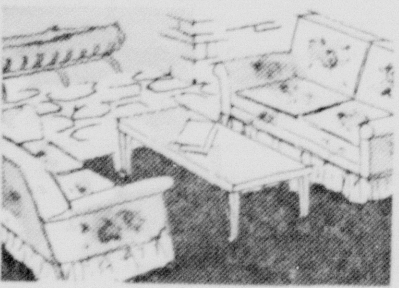

Members of Toastmasters Club are primarily interested in self-improvement through improved communication. Specifically, their objectives are better listening, better thinking, and better speaking.
